Jockey's Overconfidence Almost Costs H.P. Whitney's Filly Purse in Handicap

PIMLICO, Md., May 3. - A large rowd turned out to see a well balanced program of races decided here to-day. H. P. Whitney's Panoply won the feature event, the Govan's Handicap, six furlongs; but through the overconfidence of her rider, Coltiletti, she came near finishing second. The boy had his field well beaten at the five furlongs and Coltiletti was so busy watching War Pennant that he did not notice Ticklish on the inside of the track, and it was only in the last few strides that he saw the danger and had to drive the filly hard to win. Ticklish was second and Crank third. The time was 1:13 3-5.

The Mary, for two-year-olds owned by residents of Maryland, resulted in a victory for Jeg, owned by J. A. Griffith. He led from the start and won in a drive by a length. Griffith won this race last year with Driftwood.

Candle, jumping and running in superior form, raced into a long lead quickly and gamely drew away to win by five lengths the Patapsco Handicap Steeplechase. He was bid up and sold to G. W. Foreman for $1,700.

Chow, making his first appearance of the year, scored in clever fashion and paid a fairly good price. The last event went to Samuel Ross's Knot, who paid well. It was her first start and she won easily.

The following notice was given out.

Haines is a fine performer, but is supposed to have erratic spells. His playing yesterday bordered on the brilliant, for it was largely due to his fine court covering that Hammett and Henderson were beaten.

Haines, who hits a very hard ball, had his overhead stroke working splendidly and made few misses. Many of his shots just struck within the lines as they caromed off with a mighty bound that made them almost impossible to return. Von Bermuth played a heady game all the way.

The victors took the first set after a hard struggle by 6—4. Each side had opportunities to win, and it might be said Haines and Von Bermuth carried off the set because they passed up fewer lances.

In the second set Hammett and Henderson braced, and after a tussle that bristled with all kinds of action evened up matters by winning 6—4. They continued their fast pace and had obtained a lead of 4 to 1 in the third set when they suddenly stopped.

Hammett was serving and was within two points of adding another game to his four when he netted the ball twice in succession and finally lost the game. From then on Haines improved, while Hammett and Henderson did not seem able to pull themselves together.
